Dangerous cartel thugs are attacking Mexican police near the border & terrorizing the streets of Mexico

I wonder where they could have gotten these military-grade weapons?

Maybe Eric Holder, Obama, and Biden know?

Ah, nope. Fast and Furious was all about framing American gun shops and manufacturers by taking U.S. guns, bought over the counter, & selling them to cartels. You can't buy RPGs, LAWS rockets, SAWs, or select fire M-4s or AKs in U.S. gun shops. Those came from "elsewhere."

Roswell Grey @RoswellGrey13 · 4h

The ex-Contras formed MS-13 & Los Zetas were trained by the US Army. Everything else is just supply & demand. They created an epidemic to create an insatiable demand. With the "war on drugs", the demand went even higher and the prices went up astronomically feeding the beast.

Prohibitions on the people having such arms is not working out well, at all, in Mexico. And their "professional" police and military forces are susceptible to corruption and being co-opted by the cartels: The Mexican people would be better off with a true militia system.

Prohibitions on the people having such arms is not working out well, at all, in Mexico. And their "professional" police and military forces are susceptible to corruption and being co-opted by the cartels. The Mexican people would be better off with a true militia system.

And they'd also be better off if the drugs were de-criminalized, both there and in the U.S., to destroy the incredibly lucrative black market in drugs. Prohibition of substances doesn't work. It only grows criminal gangs, be they mobsters selling bootleg booze or drug cartels

Either you are joking or you don't know jack squat about Jiu Jitsu. I'll give you the benefit of a doubt. A "rear naked choke" is using only your arms to choke them out, instead of using either their clothing or yours. Read this:

You're welcome.

The main stream media narrative is that Charlottesville was a neo nazi rally. This is not true. President Trump himself said that there were very fine people on both sides. Hurling insults and throwing allegations around at people you disagree with is a leftist tactic

@ACLU has clearly been hacked by @TheOnion or @TheBabylonBee. What? They're serious? 🤔 🤣

They left off "men who have abortions are men."

They need Julian Castro to help them jump ALL the sharks.

Blunt reality is we don't trust the Democrats or the mainstream media AT ALL, for good reason.

Politics is so incredibly negative, caustic, uncivil, and partisan. I have to take a break from time to time.

Remember, in the real world, most Americans are not obsessed with politics and are really fairly apolitical. And far more civil in person.

I agree with that. False choices have been presented to the American people for decades. And the Marxists obviously never went away, especially in academia -just look at how Bill Ayers groomed Obama & Chesa Boudin.

But what is your argument that Trump himself is part of that?

Nonsense. I did 90 min of hot yoga three times a week for a year and it was the single best thing I ever did for my back. Awesome mobility and joint strength improvement. Just keep lifting too. You'll still be a man.

In all seriousness, men who lift need mobility work. Yoga gives it to you in a way you likely won't get on your own. I also used kettlebells, did hill sprints, a boxing workout and swam. All good. But the hot yoga really did wonders for my back (old spinal fusion from Army).

Just read the responses below

Most of you need to learn patience.

She took the time to explain herself and her excuses were reasonable. And, the fact she gave specific reasons is a good sign, instead of just ghosting.

This guy is still in the game

I only somewhat agree. Obviously, we don't know the full details. I think she's wanting him to ask her out. Yes, he's lost some degree of frame, but I would ask her out, one last time, in the right way.

I'll say this. Learn about wine. Women drink it. The knowledge will serve you well. There are so many places this conversation could have gone. Neither seem to know about wine, but if she did and was testing him, he failed miserably. The neediness is apparent.

What an idiot. Millions of "Bubbas" can build guns out in their barn with the tools and know-how their Daddy & Granddaddy taught them. 3D printing just enables geeks to do what country boys have ALWAYS been able to do. Catch an F'ing clue. @StewartRhodesOK

Nobody has a "good red". You have a good Bordeaux, or Cali Cab, or Oregon Pinot, or spicy Zin. You get "red" at Walmart in a box.

🙁. My knowledge of wine is minimal because I have better things to do with my time. Either she likes you or she doesn't. Your wine knowledge isn't going to turn her on if you don't. And if you do, she won't give a flying F whether you know wine snob 101. She'll be into you

It's not about snobbery. It's about being knowledgeable. Sure, if you're young it doesn't really matter. But, if your dealing with chicks over 30, it's good to know. Ignorance is a turn on either

Do exactly as I say and you will drop fat rapidly:

1. Eliminate all drinks except water
2. Eliminate all sugar and starchy carbohydrates, including fruit. Eat lots of vegetables and meat
3. Walk every single day. Weight training 2-3 times per week

I've done it while focused on fat loss. Meat & veggies. One large meal a day. Eating til full. Worked like a charm. Added in a protein shake after weight training on lifting days. Not sure it'll work for you if you don't have fat to lose. Depends on if you can eat enough

That s what I'm worried about, not getting the calories in in one meal

I'll try a few days of OMAD and see how it goes.

Made it easier for me to lose weight as the feeding window was very narrow and I could only eat so much in one sitting And since only ate one big meal I could eat till truly full and feeling satiated. Used apple cider vinegar to tamp down hunger sensations till used to it

What is your opinion on "anti aging" supplements Coach K? For example, Ginkgo, silymarin, curcumin, green tea, NAC (glutathione) etc. I'm pretty regimented with these things, although can't say I've checked off all those boxes on your list.

I've done it while focused on fat loss. Meat & veggies. One large meal a day. Eating till full. Worked like a charm. Added in a protein shake after weight training on lifting days. Not sure it'll work for you if you don't have fat to lose. Depends on if you can eat enough.

Made it easier for me to lose weight as the feeding window was very narrow and I could only eat so much in one sitting. And since I only ate one big meal I could eat till truly full and feeling satiated. Used apple cider vinegar to tamp down hunger sensations till used to it.

I've found I can override my automatic dislike for an outgroup member just by imagining them worrying in a hospital waiting room. Been using that trick for a few years when I'm being irrational.

So... it's beyond alien to me when people target folks when they're terminally ill.

I mean, that's my exact technique. And it works every time.

So when people face that same stimulus naturally and react the exact opposite... it's hard to not see them as having dead lizard eyes. They're just a different creature. I don't want to be near them. It's unsettling.

"Have you then imagined them as sitting worried and alone in a waiting room?"

Yes, and... it still works.

Don't have any point with this. Just feel like I'm an alien myself here sometimes. I don't get how people get this consumed by things I can forget just by closing the app

If anyone cares, here are my thoughts/speculations/questions about the #CoronaVirus 2019-nCoV.

It's a bioweapon that the Chinese lost control of. It was developed in Wuhan, and there was an obvious accident. The accident probably happened in early to mid December.

Three reasons make me think that this is a bioweapon: 1. The fact that it is asymptomatic for 7 to 14 days, yet can be transmitted during that time. 2. The fact that it is so easily transmittable. 3. The fact that it has such a high mortality rate (> 5%).

2 3 23

Gonzalo Lira @realGonzaloLira · Jan 28
No naturally occurring virus scores this trifecta, not even Ebola or the 1918 Flu.

As to the mortality rate, at this time it seems to be a mere 5%. What the actual mortality rate is cannot be determined because of Chinese government censorship.

Gestation of fetal tissue bestows many gifts to women and they needn't endure the risks of birth to benefit. Up to a year after termination, there are still detectable fetal stem cells doing work in the mother's bloodstream.

Gestating fetal tissue is so good for a woman's body that we should think of fetuses as a side effect.

How to make this practical:

Identify which area(s) you're lacking in to become a more complete man.

I am of the belief the warrior is the fundamental basis to the rest, for it is in being able to fight you come to possess the requisite tenacity to be brazen in other areas.

I'm going to jump on this for a different take. Box breathing is a gift from the Gods. I've heard Operators use it to calm nerves, and it's great post heavy WO and or run technique. Probably not right away, but eventually you should get down to around a 1 minute full recovery

I use box breathing after workouts to help down regulate but my own amateur advice would be to concentrate on deep breathing more when you feel your feet fidgeting might start to ramp up. It's a lot of trial and error to see what works best.

1. Sleep more
2. (Safely) pick up heavy things
3. Eat things that were grown or raised
4. Walk more
5. Sit less
6. Don't "take it easy" as you get older
7. Keep learning & challenging your brain

In the past we would celebrate boys and men as heroes.

Today we shame all boys and men with accusations of 'toxic masculinity' and 'male privilege'.

why the hell are they getting away with this

Went out as a female for the first time in 2 years

Didn't exactly go as planned. Weird looks all around. I "passed" to a waiter until I opened my mouth and began to speak. He was clearly taken aback and stopped addressing my gender. I can't believe that I have to "prove" that I was born female. I'm 16 and my body is ruined. I destroyed every piece of me that made me a female, or at least, the parts that made me look and feel like one. I was on testosterone for a year and a half so my voice is fucked, my boobs are gone. I'm very hairy, my face was already SUPER masculine looking pre-t so I "passed" as a dude even before I transitioned. Just don't really see the point in living if it's gonna be like this. I can't believe that everyone in my life failed me so hard. How are we letting insecure 14 year old girls make the decision to mutilate and ruin their bodies. I'm angry. I'm angry at this sick agenda. I'm angry at the sick people who think you have any other choice but to accept what you were given at birth. I'm angry that these sick people are pushing their sick agendas on sick, insecure, damaged, naive, gullible, children. Children don't know what they want. Neither do the rest of these "trans" people. I'm sorry but you can't change who you are. All it will do is send you into madness. Unfortunately, I've had to learn that lesson the hard way. I don't "feel" like a girl or a boy. I just am. I'm just me. I wish someone could've told me that I was beautiful just the way I was. I was so beautiful. Now I am ruined. I was a singer. I had a delicate, soft voice. Now it's harsh, like a teenage boy's. All of these regrets, all of these memories, the pictures on my phone that I can't stop staring at, staying up all night crying, listening to recordings of my old voice, realizing how if someone had just paid attention to me, maybe I wouldn't be in this situation. I'm furious, and there's nothing I can do except warn other young girls not to make the same mistake that I did. But I wouldn't have listened either. I wanted that escape. I wanted to be a man so bad. Being a girl brought me nothing but tragedy. I was beaten and molested as a child. I felt weak. I wanted to be strong. I didn't want to be another object for men to use. I wanted to be seen as a person. Well, now I'm a freak.

Had a friend telling me about this. There was a coach who had his athletes perform a set of an exercise holding their breath after they exhaled all the air in their lungs. They'd work up to larger set ranges. Long term effects were very low resting HR. Is this what you refer to?

But, but, but it's NOT reverse racism cuz a non-white is doing it. Only the dominant group (wink, wink, nudge, nudge) can be RACIST! This is merely the preservation of safe space for POCs, so they can relax without feeling so oppressed! 😕. It's like The Onion came to life.

This has to be for just "cold calling" i.e. walking up to women who have NOT made eye contact & smiled at you (the old school IOI), or messed with her hair (grooming) after looking at you. Is that you are talking about? Just walking up to women with no IOI?

And the 25% "conversion" of dates to sex? That also seems really low. Guys must be taking women on dates who showed low interest. Some will go on a date just for something to do, or a free meal. Screen them out! If she doesn't display high interest, don't waste your time.

Ok i follow you. But I was not speaking about getting laid on the first date.

I asked how many of your dates convert to lays.

By date understand each time with a new one. I don't get interested by how many dates it took. But with how many you finally sleep.

Cold approach also gives any relationship that may develop a completely different dynamic.

You picked the girl up

You saw her, you wanted her, you took her

That's masculine and a very different dynamic from swiping her on an app or being introduced by friends etc

The only difference between US and European schools is we allow homeschooling.

And those students do so poorly that they collectively bring down the national average to a point where Europe beats us.

The best diet for you is whatever gives you the highest satiety for the least amount of energy. For the majority of persons this will occur with protein grams higher than fat. But everyone is different and for some this could occur with higher fat, or even much higher carbs. 🙇

Thomas Winterstein @thewinterstein
@tednaiman I'm struggling with some confusion over the discussion protein and fat. You advocate P>F+C, and there are others who advocate a 2:1 F to P ratio. People have found success with body composition and overall health with both. Is it simply case by case for efficacy?

Americans underestimate how healthy it is to simply WALK

America is really not a walking country or culture at all, outside of a few cities

You go overseas, its routine to walk multiple miles a day

Car culture robs people of mobility, and perspective

I walk aimlessly for 1 hour+ everyday

The benefits are immense:

Clarity of thought
Fresh air
Eliminates need for "cardio"
Get in touch with nature and your surroundings

Great habit to build

One of the most sickening sights is watching personal trainers coach the general public at commercial gyms.

No time-tested, strength training basics.

No simple presses, pulls, squats, and hip hinges.

All complex, silly movements that most people don't need.

Avoid.

12 weeks with a real, evidence based online coach will teach you nearly everything you need to know about how to make fitness work long term

A real coach's job is to teach you a mental framework of fitness

Most commercial trainers' only goal is to milk your money dry.

It's not pointless only going to the gym for 20 minutes.

You could do enough to maintain muscle (or even progress on one lift) in that time.

5 minute warm up - a few sets of a compound lift - setting a rep PR on one of the sets.

That's very productive.

When BJJ came on the scene in the 90s, it made a splash through the martial arts world because there was nothing else like it.

No other dedicated submission-based grappling training. You had wrestlers, but wrestlers don't play off their back. Judo doesn't have guard play.

Sambo has been around longer than BJJ, but because of international relations it didn't really make it west. So, when the UFC was formed (thus beginning modern MMA), BJJ took over because no one had an answer for it.

That in itself tells you how powerful submission-based

Nick @NickLowary · 7m

...grappling really is.

BJJ is - at its core - the study of breaking the human body without striking.

Wrestling - at its core - is the study of controlling the human body without striking.

I did this for all of 2018 and lost 40 lbs of fat. It works. Ate meat, eggs, and veggies within that one hour window and on lifting days I also added 40 grams of whey after workout and then ate the feast. Cardio or yoga on other days.

Apple cider vinegar also helps cut down on cravings. I took two table spoons mixed in a glass of water. Suppressed appetite for four hours or more. But after a week or two, your cravings subside without it.

How to get MORE THAN enough protein with OMAD:

*Protein shakes 30 mins before meal
*Eat tons of beef, and not much else

This is potentially ~200+g of protein (although you don't need that much).

Stop making excuses

That's what I do too. For me, It's easier to feast on meat and veggies first, and then down a shake as desert than the other way round. But to each their own.

Exception: on lifting days I down 40-60 grams of whey protein a half hour after finishing workout. Then I feast.

Curious: I like to workout in mornings - good start on the day. But I tend to eat my OMAD in late afternoon. Do you think it's OK to lift early AM and not eat till later? Or should I lift later so I can eat right after I lift? Focus is on fat loss

The internet has led me to believe the only reason people are polite in real life is because of the potential for violence.

On the internet where that potential is gone because physical proximity is removed, you see people's true colours.

And it really is not pretty at all.

I don't think we have evolved to interact in non-threatening environments

Threat assessment of individuals and your surroundings is instinctual.

Being in a zero threat space encourages no humility when interacting with others

I believe this to be profoundly unhealthy.

Yep. Preach it. My choice is kettlebells, or body weight. When I travel I buy a set of kettlebells I use for the trip and then leave at a buddy's house when I fly home. Or I use body weight, including yoga, or put on my plate carrier and backpack & run up hotel stairs.

INDIRECT Benefits Of Muscle Gain (Thread):

Muscle mass simply improves your life.

In ways you've likely not thought of.

However:

- I'm not talking about BB/steroid-level muscle
- I AM talking about the lean, fitness model kind of muscle

Benefit #1:

#1) More Self-Belief

You've put in your dues in the gym, and gained 20-25 pounds of lean muscle

You look & feel awesome

Nice.

I train fasted. Walking fasted each morning. Then yoga or cardio on non-lift days before eating hours later. Lift days, I train fasted in afternoon and then feast 1/2 hr. after lifting. It does impact my energy somewhat on workouts, but my focus is fat loss so worth it.

They're very effective actually, especially p100 rated respirators. The reason they're claiming they're not is because many don't wear them properly and/or keep touching their faces. It's disgusting piece of misinformation.

P95 are NOT effective. Virus is too small. But P100 masks are. A p95 is better than nothing. Best if doubled up. Folks should look for P100 masks.

This was justifiable. There is a difference between a cop just shooting someone when they don't pose a threat (laquan Mcdonald) compared to someone actively struggling to resist arrest. He told him several times to stop resisting. 1/2

That's bullshit. They CAN use force to carry out the arrest, but it has to be reasonable. Lethal force can only be justified to prevent grievous bodily harm or death. In other words, to counter lethal force. That's why cops can't shoot you in back for running. Catch a clue

If your goal is to trigger autophagy, then water only. If you mean daily intermittent fasting, to lose weight, black coffee is good to go. In my opinion.

When I did 4 or 6 day fasts, autophagy was a goal (anti-cancer) so it was water only. A true fast is water only.

In another thread, he advocates OMAD - one meal a day - for max fat loss.

I've done that. 23/1 IF. It worked (along with at least one 36 hour fast per week, & a couple longer fasts - a 4 day fast &,then a 6 day fast). I lost 40 lbs of fat in 6 months

I'm doing it again.

Crazy

Apparently it can also survive for a long time on many surfaces unlike a common flu

How many things does an infected person touch a day and how many people subsequently touch those things then their eyes, nose or mouth in the following days?

Stewart Rhodes @StewartRhodesOK · 30m
What we are hearing from bio- chemists is it can live up to nine days on surfaces at room temperature and up to 30 days in temps under 40 degrees

Really. Only way to effectively avoid is self isolation

Made that choice yesterday. Felt sluggish and didn't feel like working out. Little voice in my head tried to justify skipping my workout - "you walked two miles this morning. That counts as a workout". I told it to shut the F up and I started my workout anyway. Just do it.

A case fatality rate of between 2% to 4% rivals and even exceeds that of the 1918 Spanish Flu pandemic, which is estimated to have killed upwards of 50 million people. Even a case fatality rate of 0.7% — which means 7 out of every 1,000 infected people would die — SHOULD ALARM US

5-20% of the population in the US (not sure about where you are) gets the flu every year. And that's with many people getting a flu vaccine

Yep. And it's airborne (though CDC and WHO are not telling you that). It is so small it can drift in an aerosol and float in the air over time and distance. It can move from room to room and can be emitted by an infected person just breathing. Like Smallpox or measles

Apparently it can also survive for a long time on many surfaces unlike a common flu

I think it's too late. Probably 10,000 plus infected people in the US already

It spreads so fast and easily no way to stop it but majority of population stay home for months

And that would cause worse problems than the virus

It' spread. You'l get it. Accept it.

But this isn't a common knowledge game.

Trump is specialized in playing games of complete information. The corona is a game of incomplete information and he can't handle it.

He's applying the wrong best response function (unfit for the game) to the wrong game (unfit for him).

What is a game of complete information?

It's a game like chess, where all the possible moves and payoffs are known upfront. You know exactly how each piece on the board moves before you even start.

Most politicians are so long, playing them is chess-like. Easy for Trump

That being said, contrary to the US, nobody listens to what football players say outside of football matters, moreover they very very rarely do.

IMPORTANT PSA FROM THE @Surgeon_General AND @CDCgov

– Masks work in Singapore and South Korea.
– Masks do NOT work in the United States.

– Masks work for healthcare workers and CDC employees.
– Masks do NOT work for citizens.

The lady with the hotline was very kind and professional and understood my concern about my own health and those at my clinic (Which is currently being sanitized). However, I was told I do not qualify for testing. And I was not given a timeline or info on current resources.

So. Who does qualify? Those who have been out of the country in the last 14 days, and those who have had contact with one of the few people who have been tested and come up positive. That's it.

The only way I can get treated is if my symptoms get so bad I develop pneumonia or bronchitis, which is very likely in my case. Then I'll be in the ER and quarantined for several days while waiting for a test and for the results to come back.

2 · 7 · 34

sketchy lady @into_the_brush · 3h

This is all incredibly frustrating because I am trying to do everything right in a system that punishes moments of "weakness" like taking days off.

It's also scary to know that I won't be able to get help until I need life support.

Funny how all those admissions that it is airborne have been forgotten. If the general public found out you can catch it from breathing the air inside a building or in a plane, that would cause them to not go to work, to not send their kids to school, and to not fly.

Why do women announce on their bio No DM's?

Seriously? The only reason you do it is you want it.

All you need to do is to disable DM's

You can't be this dumb to think we are this dumb to believe you

Honestly, I can relate.

No matter how attractive and successful a man may be, if he has trouble initiating interactions w/t women and hasn't had much women experience in the past (applies to most introverted men) then things are quite hard.

Thing is, a man who doesn't come across as self-confident, who doesn't make direct eye contact, or is too shy or unaware to return the little smile a woman will give to show interest, will not be seen as attractive. It's not just about face structure or build. It's vibe too.

My uncle just tested positive for the coronavirus. He lives in Venice, CA.

I've not been in direct contact with him, so we are not at risk from him, but I want to relay how the health department has managed his case. #COVID

He was skiing in the Italian alps with 6 other guys. 4 of them, including my uncle, now have the coronavirus. One is in a coma, two are sick, and my uncle has not presented any symptoms as of yet. He self-quarantined and called the health department. #COVID

Scott Bell @heartWalSt · 8h

A few days later they tested him and yesterday he found out he's positive. Meanwhile, they've told my aunt to wear a mask, stay 10 feet away from my uncle, and otherwise she is free to move about the community. And, she has to grocery stores, the hair salon, etc. #COVID

Scott Bell @heartWalSt · 8h

Believe me, I'm upset to hear that she did this. The crazier part is that they have not tested her, and will not, and again advised her she is free to move at will. This is how our health dept. is leading this effort. #COVID @CDCemergency @GavinNewsom @MayorOfLA

And an adjustable bench.

Then you can do a solid program and very little space is needed

Rob W. James @Rob_NBF · 16h

You can get a solid 3x full body routine with that stuff

Chinups
Goblet squats
Dumbell Lunges
Dumbell rows
Standing dumbell press
Pushups

Very minimal. DB bench press if you get the bench, floor press if not Drive man. Don't fly. This shit is airborne- it hangs in the air. Anyone on the plane has it, they can give it to you with each breath they exhale.

If you MUST fly, sit up front. Fresh air comes in up front and then exits the back. Fly 1st class, in first seat. Board late

Logic of assisted suicide always pointed towards death-on-demand.The logic is irrefutable. If a "right to die," how can it be limited to restricting categories? Now, Germany's highest court declared an unlimited right "to a self-determined death"

However much we might dislike the guy, our national legislature could be an epicenter of an outbreak (from exposures at AIPAC and CPAC) and he's the only one taking any sort of remedial action.

That's with treatment. I'd they are also cutting off anyone who is old who needs a ventilator, ten that death rate will vastly increase.

So, do they only film the mad rush on toilet paper because it's so bizarre, or are they also making a mad dash for the bags of rice, but nobody bothers to film that? 🤔 Things that keep me up at night ... 🤣

Maddening. Absurd. The CDC has its collective head up its collective ass. Contrast this with South Korea, where they test broadly.

Ok Caitlin but why should anybody, with the current unknown state of transmission, put their family at risk for unnecessary travel? That goes in the face of all that we've learned in the last 6-7 weeks

4 · 2 · 93

Brian ⚡ Lockhart @BrianLockhart · Mar 5

Yeah, this seems counterintuitive? If you feel OK that's no guarantee you're in the clear right? Lots of folks are taking hard looks at upcoming trips and "cancelling nonessential travel" per a myriad of other folks recommending it?

1 · · 19

Brian ⚡ Lockhart @BrianLockhart · Mar 5

Plus, there's the whole "what if I go on my trip, but get sick while there, and can't come back?" and "what if travel gets shut down while I'm away and I can't get back"

3 · · 14

Chaz Cryptoson @thechaz · Mar 5

I'm honestly reaching the point where the moral implications are overwhelming — how many second, third, and higher order effects are you going to introduce by your seemingly innocuous travel plans? Fuck being indirectly responsible for killing people if I can help it

On February 27th, Italy had 600 people infected with coronavirus.

Today, it has 10,000 cases and the entire country is on lockdown.

The US has less than a million beds, and most are already in use. Scientists are just starting to predict that 40-70% of the world will develop this virus. That is 3-5 BILLION. With 3.4% mortality rate, that is 104 000 000 to 183 000,00 deaths worldwide.

Here is the reality of their situation...

#italylockdown
#coronavirus #CoronavirusOutbreak

#WarRoomPandemic #warroom2020

The issue is that at present all our hospitals are full there are no more beds available for people that need assisted breathing. there are no more breathing machines. there are no more hospital wings where to take the infected people and in many cases the death count is low because there is medical assistance, but if you cannot provide it then it is catastrophy at present we have received communication that any other operation or hospitalization has been cancelled or postponed unless a patient is at death threat this means that you cannot go to the hospital to get cured because all the doctors and nurses and hospital entourage are busy handling CV infections
In Italy we have had over 9000 cases, but over 450 have died that is 5% If you consider that the infection is growing of about 20% every day, it is a serious situation the majority of people that have died are elderly and had other pathologies, but there are a lot of young people that have been intubated in the north hospitals are refusing to recover elderly people and give priority to younger when we reach that point it is bad, seriously bad this is the situation now.

WE NEED TO TAKE ACTION, BEFORE ITS TOO LATE. SPREAD THE MESSAGE BEFORE ITS TOO LATE! #CoronavirusPandemic #christinahiggins #italylockdown in war. This will only get worse.

There are a finite number of drs, nurses, medical staff and they are getting the virus. They have also been working non stop, non stop for days and days What happens when the drs, nurses and medical staff are simply not able to care for the patients, when they are not there?

And finally for those who say that this is just something that happens to old people, starting yesterday the hospitals are reporting that younger and younger patients – 40, 45, 18, are coming in for treatment.

You have a chance to make a difference and stop the spread in your country. Push for the entire office to work at home today, cancel birthday parties, and other gatherings, stay home as much as you can If you have a fever, any fever, stay home. Push for school closures, now. Anything you can do to stop the spread, because it is spreading in your communities – there is a two week incubation period – and if you do these things now you can buy your medical system time

And for those who say it is not possible to close the schools

Right, all that research is for post workout. PGC-1a, UCP-1, and brown adipose all are activated during cold exposure to our benefit. Just do apart from training.

Also, I haven't found a research study that showed heat exposure/sauna activated those pathways I just named.

This is the same asshole who lied to Congress by NOT telling them #COVID—19 is airborne & can linger in the air for hours despite knowing that since at least late January. CDC should warn all Americans to wear masks & eye protection & should advise Trump to stop all flights.

So exactly why the fuck do billions in federal taxes go to federal agencies, like CDC & FEMA, if they are only some temporary buffer or stopgap when states don't have enough momentary supplies? Let's just keep our tax dollars local then. 😕

Daniel Dale @ddale8
After Jared Kushner's comment about how the Strategic National Stockpile is not supposed to be for states, lots of people pointed to the fact that its own website says it is.

I'd love for someone to explain why you're recommending cloth masks, which do just about NOTHING to prevent the wearer from viral particles? I get why you're doing it, re: saving N95 masks for healthcare workers, but this smacks of active disinfo. which could kill people

Lynn Metzger @narn agirl55 · 11h

Wash your hands frequently for 20 seconds or sanitize. Use a rough paper towel to scrap off germs & throw it away. Getting too close to someone's mouth and hand to hand transmission is how it moves.

If you're sick, No kissing or sharing food and drinks! It's common sense people

It also can pass from person to person in the air. And that means on a person's exhaled breath. Not just in droplets from sneezing or coughs. It can linger in the air for hours in enclosed spaces. Something the CDC will get around to telling you in another month. 🙁

This is so important for everyone to understand. This explains why Governors say: I'm not getting the supplies I need - yet @POTUS says we are sending tons of supplies: It's going from the federal govt to commercial distributors who then deliver to the highest bidder: states!

It's been known since January. #Coronavirus is airborne. I spent last 3 weeks in Dena s threads trying to warn her and her followers.
The only reason for lying and withholding that info from the American general public is SHORTAGE OF MASKS. That's all to it

I'm a federalist through and through, but the notion that states are responsible for gearing up and responding to a national (global) pandemic and the feds are bystanders or secondary is nuts. That said, thank God for some of these governors.

The information about asymptomatic transmission is NOT recent. It has been known since February

This is a pathetic excuse for your prior bad advice against wearing masks.

Fox News fearmongers about coronavirus with dubiously sourced viral video

Fox described the video as a Chinese nurse ... blowing the whistle on a higher than reported infection rate. The unverified video comes from an account known for pushing unsourced information in breaking news environments

On January 27, Fox News' Fox & Friends ran two segments ... a Chinese nurse ... blowing the whistle ... Twitter ... claimed ... infection rate is 15 times higher than what Chinese officials are reporting ... host Brian Kilmeade ... interview with Dr. Mehmet Oz, ... said that the outbreak is happening in this secretive society where candor is secondary, and we're seeing clues that this is so much worse.

Americans bought over 2 million firearms in March of 2020, over a million more than this time last year. We have to keep each other safe by social distancing and washing our hands and not bringing dangerous firearms into our homes.

Remarkable that we now have twin alternate theories - one that virus is over-reported as cause of death and another that it is underreported, but both suspecting evil intent. So which is it? Or is it just flawed humans in action?

> Lea Black @LeaBlackMiami
> I was just told from my doctor at a hospital in Miami that if someone dies from the virus but they have not tested them for the virus they are not listing them as a coronavirus death. This seems very suspicious. Are they trying to keep the numbers down for political reasons?

I agree. How pathetic is it that companies are finding themselves in need of immediate cash when they've had enormous amount of venture capital pumped into them

Agreed. Paleo, keto, or carnivore, plus intermittent fasting (narrow eating window or OMAD), & throw in some extended fasts (help prevent cancer too). Along with lifting or body weight strength training. All good. @StewartRhodesOK

Yep. Every time I've done one of those I've suffered carb withdrawal headaches for about a day. Then amazing mental clarity and focus. Takes a little effort. But well worth it.

I have been eating keto diet and intermittent fasting since December 27th. Three days cardio and light weight lifting per week.

I'm back to the weight I was 20 yrs ago. 100% spot on blood work as of a month ago. Normal blood pressure. And my energy level is through the roof

1 · · 5

Oath Keepers @Oathkeepers · Apr 13
How much weight did you lose in that time?@StewartRhodesOK

EyeWantJustice @rktpwrd · Apr 13
I started out at 186. and now at 155. First 8 weeks I probably lost half of that due to drastically giving up carbs (<25g/day) and excise. It leveled off as the weeks have gone along. I'm more in the mode of trying to make this a lifestyle now, rather than weight loss

I also found that intermittent fasting was also a big benefit. I only eat between 9a-6p. The rest of the time I drink water, coffee, and tea only. No artificial sweeteners. Once per week, I go 24 hrs. Was hard at first. Now, I enjoy the energy it gives me and look forward to it.

I found I lost the most weight using a 20/4 eating schedule. 20 hours fasted, including sleep, then eating in a 4 hour window each day. Almost One Meal A Day (usually a big meal and then a small meal or protein shake 2-3 hours later). And throwing in an occasional 36 hr fast.

Make yourself attainable goals. I've been a trainer for a decade and you want to live a good life! Go 5 days off, 1 on. Then maybe 6 days off. It makes your goals mappable and keeps your craving at bay

What am I doing wrong. No carbs at all. A freshly made strawberry smoothie in the am. A plain ol salad in evening. I was 120 two years ago can't get down from 160. Advise please?

The strawberry smoothie in the morning is spiking your blood sugar and taking you right out of any ketosis you were in overnight while sleeping. Skip breakfast and cut out fruit entirely while focused on losing weight. Try 18/6 intermittent fasting.

I'm no expert, but I'll give you some of my experience. Low carbs is good. I've been at less than 25g/day, and pretty stringent about it. The carbs I do eat basically come from whole foods (vegetables). Too much fruit seems to raise my blood sugar, so I limit those.

I have been eating keto diet and intermittent fasting since December 27th. Three days cardio and light weight lifting per week.

I'm back to the weight I was 20 yrs ago. 100% spot on blood work as of a month ago. Normal blood pressure. And my energy level is through the roof.

I started out at 186, and now at 155. First 8 weeks I probably lost half of that due to drastically giving up carbs (<25g/day) and excise. It leveled off as the weeks have gone along. I'm more in the mode of trying to make this a lifestyle now, rather than weight loss.

It's tough to maintain it as a lifestyle. Made it 8 months kept it off for years though, just by eating smarter cause you learn what foods are just a no.

I need to start up again

EyeWantJustice @rktpwrd · Apr 13

I hear you. Starting up can be hard. Took me about two weeks to get past feeling tired from eating less, and not eating carbs. Didn't lose much those first couple weeks either. But then, boom - one day I just felt 1000% better. I think getting past the beginning is rough, though.

MSM_Distancing_Rep @TomRWilkinson · Apr 13

That's exactly how it went, and then around the 8 month mark I started getting cravings again... Then no sh!t I had a heart attack at 36. Too much meat not enough veggies... Hearts fine and I'm 55 so eat lots of green veggies and take supplements for healthy heart.

There's a lot of questions re muscle loss, frequency etc

1) Do them once per month if you're >15% bf

2) You DO train, low volume

3) You'll need electrolytes, BCAA's etc.

I show you exactly how to do all this in the manual:

Interesting take. "Thick is in" certainly has had its time and place across history and all cultures (Asia, Europe, Africa). Today with abundance of food, water, shelter, modern medicine, technology and automation, obesity is a logical outcome, but somehow seems out of place.

It is a terrible way to die. But also a debilitating way to live as well. I have sympathy for obese people. It is not a hopeless or permanent condition. Anyone can lose wt. Humans were not meant to eat 3 squares per day of high sugar high carb processed food vs zero exertion

In case you've been having a tough time during the lockdown, I just wanted to let you know. I've been having a tough time too

Some things pissing me off recently

2) My complete inability to go to bed on time. I feel like a loser waking up at 2pm

FASTING

Research has shown that short-term fasts, such as daily and overnight 12- to 16-hour fasts, will actually increase your metabolic rate due to an increase in norepinephrine, one of the hormones that signal fat cells to break down.

Eat everyday within an 8 hour window.

STARVATION MODE MYTH

It takes 3 days, or 4 weeks of extreme calorie restriction for the body to down regulate metabolism, there is no need to snack throughout the day if your goal is to lose weight

EAT AT THE SAME TIME

Maintaining a regular eating schedule can improve the metabolic response to meals, don't skip breakfast one day then eat it the next, don't snack late at night etc

Your combination of genes and experiences have never been seen in the world before and they will never be seen again after.

This combination means you have some unique level of 'medicine' that you can share with the world.

It is your duty to discover this.

WHY YOU'RE NOT LOSING FAT (THREAD)

"Bronze Brah, I want to lose fat, how do I do it?"

This is a commonly asked question and the answer is relatively simple;
move more, eat less.

HOWEVER, there are factors that can be inhibiting your fat loss, despite dieting + exercising!

Maybe I should just spend more money on the drumset instead.

A great deal of truth in this. The key is to seek balance. To work to better yourself for yourself AND for your family, tribe, & nation. Self centered men who only seek money & sex, & have no other cause, no other mission, are failing on their duty as men.

Sex is a primal drive & need. Money can buy a great deal of freedom. Nothing wrong with being good at getting either or both. But the hedonistic, wealthy playboy who cares ONLY for those two things is an incomplete man. And he will feel incomplete, inside, even while denying it.

Stewart Rhodes @StewartRhodesOK Apr 20

Some "red pill" men will try to deny this. They are so jaded about life that they lower their expectations/standards & declare that nothing else matters outside of getting paid & getting paid. And there's no shortage of "gurus" who preach exactly that.

Exercise: weighted press ups

This feels awesome.

If you are a beginner/very new to body weight workouts just do normal press ups.

Press ups work your chest, front delts (shoulders) and triceps.

Hands slightly wider than shoulder width apart = these 3 areas equally trained.

Sex is a primal drive & need. Money can buy a great deal of freedom. Nothing wrong with being good at getting either or both. But the hedonistic, wealthy playboy who cares ONLY for those two things is an incomplete man. And he will feel incomplete, inside, even while denying it.

The guys who are less skilled at getting women eat it up, & strive to emulate the guru. Nothing wrong with being better at attracting women. But there's a deeper meaning to life to be had once you can do that.

Be a better man for more reasons than just to get laid.

Stewart Rhodes @StewartRhodesOK · Apr 20
Or to just get paid. There are higher virtues and purposes.

But being poor sucks! Yes it does. And being an incel sucks too, no doubt. So fix both. But look for deeper meaning & higher purpose than just sex & money. Courage, honor, patriotism, love, & friendship matter.

A great deal of truth in this. The key is to seek balance. To work to better yourself for yourself AND for your family, tribe, & nation. Self centered men who only seek money & sex, & have no other cause, no other mission, are failing on their duty as men.

Rest of answer: DHS guidelines on what "essential services" should stay open, which the governors then used to shut down small businesses while leaving Walmart open. Trump MUST revoke those "guidelines" that give political & legal cover to this nonsense.@StewartRhodesOK

Openings should be based on a business's ability to meet health and safety standards, not tyrannical governors picking lovers and winners.

This idiocy relies on the nonsensical belief that you can scale contact tracing on a virus that can spread asymptomatically in a nation of 330 million people. Forget voodoo economics. This is voodoo epidemiology.

The guys who are less skilled at getting women eat it up, & strive to emulate the guru. Nothing wrong with being better at attracting women. But there's a deeper meaning to life to be had once you can do that

Be a bette man for more reasons than just to get laid

Or to just get paid. There are higher virtues and purposes.

But being poor sucks! Yes it does. And being an Incel sucks too, no doubt. So fix both. But look for deeper meaning & higher purpose than just sex & money. Courage, honor, patriotism, love, & friendship matter

They've had enough. Sweden took a very different course, relying on voluntary compliance, not coercion. And NOT shutting down their society (also see South Dakota) When you use coercion, people will tend to push back. Especially Americans.

Depressed?

Here's what to do:

1) Do 100+ push-ups
2) Do 10+ pull-ups
3) Do 10 sets of burpees
4) Take a cold shower
5) Eat a large steak, eggs & broccoli

GUARANTEED to feel better

But I know you won't do it.

I won't take you seriously until you do

Got a rotator cuff injury so can't do most of that 😂 but hey, I can do 100 squats and chug black coffee like a champion. And I've got ribeye and eggs for days with this lockdown. Cold shower? How about tepid?

The model that is shaping US policy on Coronavirus had expected NY will need 10,839 ICU beds today. The actual use is under 3,400.

The model projected this as recent as a mere week ago.

This is off on the doomsday side by 310% despite weeks into the crisis.

Concentrating people into one location doesn't help mitigate contagion spread. Particulates stay in the air for hours indoors.

Since the virus reportedly dies from UV light - why would gardening, hiking, surfing, skateboarding and outdoor activity be prohibited?

I personally think that the Democrat Govs and Mayors want to make sure people get sick. Hence the Big Box stores having preference.

They also want to make sure no one is around when they release criminals etc.

Just a hunch.

Depressed?

Here's what to do:

1) Do 100+ push-ups
2) Do 10+ pull-ups
3) Do 10 sets of burpees
4) Take a cold shower
5) Eat a large steak, eggs & broccoli

But being poor sucks! Yes it does. And being an incel sucks too, no doubt. So fix both. But look for deeper meaning & higher purpose than just sex & money. Courage, honor, patriotism, love, & friendship matter.

Meat shortages?

Can anyone in Ag give a little more color here?

The "emergency" laws recently enacted by State and local Govt's are simply Communism.

The most astonishing are laws saying tenants don't have to to pay rent.

What about Landlords who must pay mortgages or lose their buildings?

Gov't seems to have quickly figured out how to turn it into a get-richer scheme, boosting their personal profit margins, hasn't it?

Who'll stop them, the corrupt DOJ that's also pushing another corrupt presidential candidate so they can all keep getting away with more?

Covid vaccine! I will refuse to take it! It will be ineffective and dangerous. There are now 20 known mutations. I have never taken a flu shot, and I will refuse to take a COVID VACCINE. If the Govt makes it mandatory, what will you do?

Community spread is now so widespread and near universal and the actual impact of the virus on 99% of the population so minimal that contract tracing is absurd. You may as well contact trace the common flu or common cold.

This is about control of people @StewartRhodesOK

salty seadude @10FathomLine 5h

I'm not sure where you learned math but the USA has 1.5 million covid cases out of a population of 328 million. That means about 0.05% of the population has been infected not 99%

This is about preventing the spread to the 99 95% of our population that is not infected.

Replying to @10FathomLine @Oathkeepers

. I didn't say 99% of the population has been infected. I said the impact on 99% of those who do get it is minimal. That's well established.

Also, health officials never said their efforts were about preventing its spread. Just slowing the spread - "flattening the curve."

He can't do it all himself. No one has EVER attempted this kind of Deep State overhaul before. So you say everyone sits until it's too late. Until he's dead or they steal the election or whatever they have in store after Coup, plandemic, race war. Bold stuff!

😕. He's the COMMANDER IN CHIEF. He needs to act like it. Give some friggin orders. If he issues the orders and those lawful orders are refused, we'll dance that dance.

But he needs to do HIS JOB. Stop making excuses for his failure to act.

We WILL support him if he acts.

If President Trump doesn't take the perfectly constitutional actions he can take to suppress this insurrection then yes, we veterans will have no choice but to step in. As a last resort. But we shouldn't have to do his job for him. We WILL answer the call if he calls us up.

Yes, the Governor has a duty to suppress this insurrection & secure the rights of Americans who are being required to show ID & pay Antifa extortion money just to go home.

But Trump has a duty as well. This is a national insurrection.

True. And with a normal Governor the president wouldn't need to step in. This Gov. created this and as time passes, he sets himself up for charges against him.
You have police friends, ask them how this works. I see a good case being crated and that will be a first for Dems

This is now far beyond the level of domestic violence within a state. It is a well funded, well organized, nationwide Marxist insurrection that is seizing territory. The longer this goes on, the bolder they will become and the more it will spread, like a cancer @StewartRhodesOK

Tomorrow morning I will walk in the Sheriff's office that I love and turn in my badge and ID. I will not be part of a group of people enforcing masks while I'm told I cannot arrest violent socialist scum who accost good Americans and burn cities. Fuck you This is Texas.

Goes without saying here but switch “white” to “black” in this statement, have it coming out of the mouth of a white player, and there would be a season long suspension plus protests and every other player in the league would be lining up to denounce

So Twitter Nazis put Oath Keepers on a seven day "time out" for allegedly violating their "community standards" for daring to support Kyle Rittenhouse.

Apparently they haven't gotten around to my personal account yet.

The obvious goal is to get the police to fire on “peaceful protesters” so the left has a modern “Kent State” shooting to use, to justify even more violence.

William Barr: "The tracking down of Reinoehl — a dangerous fugitive, admitted Antifa member, & suspected murderer — is a significant accomplishment in the ongoing effort to restore law and order to Portland & other cities." justice.gov/opa/pr/stateme …

Department of Justice

Office of Public Affairs

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE Friday, September 4, 2020

Statement by Attorney General William P. Barr on the Tracking Down of Fugitive Michael Forest Reinoehl

Attorney General William P. Barr has issued the following statement:

"Last Saturday, Aaron "Jay" Danielson was shot and killed amid the continuing violence in Portland. Local authorities subsequently obtained an arrest warrant for Michael Forest Reinoehl, a self-described Antifa member suspected of the alleged murder. Reinoehl fled to Washington State, where he was located yesterday by members of a fugitive task force led by the U.S. Marshals Service, the FBI, and state and local law enforcement partners. When Reinoehl attempted to escape arrest and produced a firearm, he was shot and killed by law enforcement officers.
